BBB Accredited since December 2006

AutoPro owner, says "Belonging to the Better Business Bureau puts me on the same team with the best businesses in the state. If you are Accredited with the BBB, you're doing things right!"

AutoPro has been in business since March 2006. However, Toles has been repairing and servicing vehicles for longer than that. A love for working on cars runs in the family, he says. "My dad has been doing it since he was 16. I found that I was good at it, too. In fact, I was offered a job as head mechanic at a car dealership years ago." Toles decided to take the plunge and open his own shop, where there is over 75 years of experience in automotive service between him and his employees. Toles also has a Shelbyville location, which just became Accredited with the BBB of Central & Eastern Kentucky.

Toles believes in supporting the BBB through Accreditation because the BBB is very important to the community. "It separates the good from the not-so-good, and gives people confidence in doing business with you. A good portion of our customers are new to area, or only need service everyone once in a while. So they check to see if a business is legitimate and doing things the right way. Our BBB Accreditation helps assure them that we are doing just that."

In the recent "Best of the Best" competition sponsored by the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce, AutoPro was voted best auto service shop, and Toles is proud of that honor. Toles also gives to the community by offering free auto care classes to area women teaching them to check fluids, change a tire, and so on. Toles is proud of his shop. "We keep it clean, cleaner than some doctor offices or restaurants, even. Our crew is clean cut. We do business ethically."

When asked what he would tell other businesses considering seeking BBB Accreditation, Toles says, "I would suggest they do it. It puts you in a league of your own, and lets the public know that your business is ethical and that you are proud of doing things right. If you are not ashamed of how you run your business, then put it out there for everyone to see."
